OBČUTKI – NAJMOČNE- JŠE OROŽJE GLEDALIŠČA

Repertoar Mini teatra za otroke in mlade smo si zamislili kot estetiko vtisa. Razmišljamo, kako odnos do "otroškega", tistega, kar je Nietzsche poimenoval esenca, Deleuze pa "blok otroštva", gradi svet, ki ob medsebojnem prepletanju epskega in dramskega vsaja v najmlajše estetske in etične usmeritve. Glas pripovedovalca, zgodbe, simbolične slike, elemente realnosti oblikujemo skozi nežne upočasnitve z vsajanjem občutka za parabolo. Z našimi predstavami želimo odpreti serijo različnih vzgojnih angažmajev, s katerimi se osvaja duh solidarnosti, enakosti in predvsem radosti, ki je predpogoj za kreacijo. Od usmeritev k zakladnici pravljic smo se obrnili k pripravljanju bodočih gledalcev in bralcev, ki bodo postali publika javnega gledališča. Cenjeni nemški avtor tekstov za mlade Ulrich Hub v mladinski drami Natanovi otroci po posebnem ključu obdeluje klasično Lessingovo delo Natan modri. Drama iz osemnajstega stoletja je spremenjena v sodobno zgodbo enaindvajsetega stoletja, ki več kot potrebuje pogum za obvladovanje predsodkov in odprtost za resnični dialog. Režiserja Robert Waltl in Alen Prošić sta zbrala močno avtorsko ekipo, ki k tej mladinski drami pristopa z veliko odgovornostjo sodobnega umetnika, ki se nahaja pred mlaudo publiko, a se mora osvoboditi didaktičnosti.

Vsi tukaj, vsi skupaj je naslov predstave, ki nastaja po dveh sodobnih nemških otroških slikanicah, dramski tekst mlade hrvaške dramatičarke Mirne Rustemović pa nas s songi pesnice Olje Savičević Ivančević vodi v svet lastnih predsodkov do drugih in na duhovit način pod surovo nestrpnostjo odkriva človeško toplino. Čarobni lutkovni svet daje tej mnogokulturni in mnogobarvnii zloženki poseben šarm.

Čudoviti lisjak Roalda Dahla je morda pri nas manj znano delo, čeprav gre za klasiko, ki ima zasluženo mesto ob avtorjevih Gremlinih in Čarliju in tovarni čokolade; vsa tri dela vedno znova navdihujojo s svojo lucidno genialnostjo. Z režijo Čudovitega lisjaka se bo s svojim režijskim raziskovanjem precizne mizanske in strastne predanosti lutkovni umetnosti prvič v Sloveniji predstavil eden najbolj priznanih angleških lutkovnih režiserjev Steve Tiplady.

Pesnitev Balada o readinški ječi Oscarja Wilda je prekrasno besedilo, ki posega v ustaljeni red in brez pogojno moralno, ki vladata svetu, da bi z demonskimi izzivi zmotilo skladnost tradicionalne patriarhalne družbe. Oscar Wilde je emancipirajoči junak, ki provocira lažno moralno javnega življenja, izizza sistem in govorí v imenu vseh tistih brez polnopravnega statusa. Predstavo Balada o readinški ječi bo režiral Ivan Peternelj, ki se je že izkazal kot popolni zagovornik Wilevega pisana.

Demokracija je v krizi reprezentacije in legitimacije. Krhki napredek v osvajanju družbenih in individualnih svobod je razrušen z divjanjem liberalnega trga. Zaradi pohlepa bogatih po denarju in moči je na preživetveni rob odrinjen visok odstotek prebivalstva, ki se z vsakim dnem še viša. To so ljudje brez dela in brez perspektive, da bi ga lahko našli, in pa tisti, ki so delo za vedno izgubili. Gledališče, kakršno smo nasledili iz antike, je nastalo kot proizvod demokracije, kot kritični duh, ki se je razvil iz ideje splošnega dobra. Delo na sebi in za skupnost je pogojevalo potrebo za spoznanjem, kako razumeti svet, kako zadovoljiti željo za sublimnim. Sodobno gledališče, katerega predstavnike Mini teater, poskuša najti svoje zaveznike, svojo publiko v šolah, med delavci starega in novega tipa, med nezaposlenimi in upokojenci. Po mnenju eksistencialistov je novi in neznan čas bolje kot s strahom obvladovati z upanjem, elanom in pogumom, novemu je potrebno dodati celo – radosti. Sodobni človek se boji bližnjega dotika z drugimi, enako pa se boji biti sam, brez dotika z drugimi. Mini teater predlaga, da počnete vse drugo razen zapiranja vase in odgajanja drugega, kar v svetu dosega že alarmantne razsežnosti. V majhni sredini, kot je naša, mora želja za drugim in drugačnim, za novimi spoznanji, osebnostmi in kulturnami najti način, kako se drzno upreti sovraštvu in postavljanju zidov. Proti močnim občutkom, s katerimi manipulirajo populisti, se tudi mi borimo z močnimi občutki, ki so lahko orožje gledališča. Populisti pred našimi očmi spreminjajo kulturno matrico, izgovarjajo do včeraj nedopustne stvari pod pretvezo svobodnega izražanja mišljenja. Visok prag strpnosti do izrečenega in ideolesko spodbujanje „poguma“, da lahko izjavиш kar koli, je zelo škodljivo. „Jaz si to dovolim glasno izjaviti“ pripada samo gledališču. Gledališče zadovoljuje človekovo potrebo, da govoriti o sebi in da ga pri tem drugi poslušajo. Mi v svojih predstavah ob družbenih vprašanjih postavljamo tudi estetska vprašanja o mestu in naravi besedila v sodobnem gledališču.

Dramsko besedilo sodobnega in samosvojega francoskega avtorja z magrebskimi koreninami Mohameda el Khatiba Naj bo konec lep je režiser Ivica Buljan za istoimensko odrsko uprizoritev vzel kot oporišče, iz katerega rastejo sekvence, od intimnih beležk, zdravniških diagnoz do analize lastne umetniške pozicije na javni sceni. Gre za heterogeno delo, sestavljeno iz različnih dialogov, fragmentov dnevnika, dokumentarnih materialov ... Smrt matere je intimna točka, v kateri življenje dobri novo obliko. Pri tem se srečujemo tudi z opisi življenjskih ritualov in minevanja v nam nepoznani islamski kulturi. Toda ne gre za etnografsko raziskovanje, naš namen je pokazati na originalen gledališki rokopis, ki se odpira k razumevanju Drugega, kar naša zaprta sredina tako zelo potrebuje.

Roman Kozmopolis Dona DeLilla in kompleksen ciklus Moj boj Karla Oveja Knausgaarda, ki nam ju je predlagal režiser Alen Prošić, se odpirata političnim in osebnim dimenzijam aktualnih performativov.

Adaptacije tako mogočnih in narativno razvezanih besedil v predstave niso le poskusi gledališča, da bi izrazilo njihovo moč, ampak tudi težnja, da bi prodrlo v cono mračnih in vzburjajočih fantazem. Klasična dela svetovne literature so danes aktualna, če jih obravnavamo usmerjena proti prihodnosti.

Avtorica Saša Pavček in režiserka Barbara Zemljič nam pripravljata posebno, skoraj "hanekejevsko" poetsko dramo Pod snegom, ki preizpršuje našo nemoč, da se soočimo s pomanjkanjem solidarnosti. Njuna analiza ni enostavno obtožuječa, opravičilo išče v strahovih, ki jih ne moremo obvladati. Mini teater od svoje ustanovitve neguje komorno dramo poezije, in ta sodobni domači biser je izbrušen v rafiniranem stilu, premišljen in aktualen.

Naš razred Tadeusza Słobodzianeka že v naslovu sugerira reminiscence na klasično delo Tadeusza Kantorja Mrtvi razred. Obstajajo številne vezi med temo deloma, ki nam ju je poljska kultura zapustila kot zgodovinski memento in umetniško pričevanje enega najstrašnejših obdobjij evropske zgodovine. Če katera sodobna drama s svojim moralnim sporočilom ne le ruši dokumentarno-fikcijske vsebine, ampak jo krepi na nekem višjem nivoju, potem je to vsekakor večkrat uprizorjeni Naš razred, ki ga bo tokrat režirala nadarjena mlada režiserka Nina Rajić Kranjac, za katero bo to prva predstava v Mini teatru.

Za današnji čas je značilna prav panična zaskrbljenost glede tega, kaj da publika rada gleda, rada pa gleda tisto, kar že pozna. To nas oddaljuje od učinka presenečenja in možnosti, da spodbudimo dialog. Umetniško gledališče se v medijih prikazuje kot kvintesenca ne-uporabne umetnosti, kar nam potrjuje, da se elite bojijo njenega učinka na branje, gledanje in mišljenje publike. Mini teater je s svojimi predstavami, razstavami in branji del socialnega tkiva, del duha svojega časa, pa naj misli z njim ali proti njemu.

& IVICA BULJAN

FEELINGS – THE THEATRE'S STRONGEST WEAPON

Aesthetics of Impression is the key-thought that defines the Mini teater's repertoire for children and youth.. We are thinking about how our attitude about the “child” (what Nietzsche called “the essence”, and Deleuze the “childhood block”) is building a world that, interweaving the epic and the dramatic, plants some aesthetic and ethical views into the toddlers and youngsters. The Mini teater's approach is to form the voice of the narrator, the stories, symbolic images, elements of reality, through tender decelerations and by incorporating a feeling of parabola. With our performances, we want to open with the series of diverse educational engagements with which we can adopt the spirit of the tolerance, the equality, and above all – of the joy, which is a precondition for the creation. We have searched in the treasury of fairytales in order to guide our youngest spectators and readers to become the future the audience of public theatres.

Ulrich Hub, a German author of texts for youth, offers a special adaptation of the Lessing classic Nathan the Wise to a play for youth Nathan's Children. An 18th-century drama is transformed into a contemporary story of the 21st century that truly needs courage to – overcome the prejudice and to be open for the real dialogue. The directors Robert Waltl and Alen Prošić have gathered a strong team that will treat this youth play with a great responsibility for the contemporary artists who have to free themselves from didactics in order to be close to the young audience..

All Here, All Together is the title of the performance that takes inspiration from two contemporary German picture books. The play, written by the young Croatian author Mirna Rustemović with the songs by Olja Savičević Ivančević, is leading us into the world of our own prejudices towards others, and in a humorous way, it unveils human warmth under the rough intolerance. The magical world of puppets gives a special charm to this multicultural and multicolour patchwork.

Fantastic Mr. Fox by Roald Dahl is perhaps one of his less known works in Slovenia, although it is a classic and it has a well-deserved spot next to the Gremlins and Charlie and the Chocolate Factory; all three works inspire over and over again with their lucid genius. The direction of Fantastic Mr. Fox will be trusted to Steve Tiplady, one of the best English puppet directors, who will direct in Slovenia for the first time and who is known for his precise mise-en-scène and a passionate devotion to the puppet art.

Oscar Wilde's Ballad of Reading Gaol is a wonderful text that cuts into the set of order and unconditional moral that rule the world, by disturbing the uniformity of the traditional patriarchal society with demonic outpours. Oscar Wilde is an emancipating hero provoking the false moral of the public life, challenging the system and speaking in the name of those without a complete status. The performance Ballad of Reading Gaol will be directed by Ivan Peternelj, who has already proven himself as a perfect advocate of the Wilde's writing.

Today's democracy is in a crisis of representation and legitimization. The fragile progress in conquering social and individual freedoms is crushed by the raging of the liberal market. Greed for money and power has pushed a high percentage of the population to the edge of survival, and the percentage is getting higher every day. Those are the people without work and without prospects to find it, and the people who have lost their work for ever. We have to look at the very roots of our western civilization. We have inherited the theatre from the era of antiquity. The theatre was formed as a product of democracy, as a critical spirit developed from the idea of the common good. To work on oneself and to work for the community were the conditions for the need to know how to understand the world, how to satisfy the wish of the subliminal. Mini teater as a contemporary theatre transcends the antique Greek principle and brings it back to the modern world by searching our allies and our audiences in the schools among the works of old and new type, among the unemployed, among the retired people and among the refugees. According to the opinion of existentialists, the new and unknown time is better managed with hope than with fear. We need vigour, courage, and we also need some joy. The contemporary man is afraid of close contact with others, but he is also afraid to be alone, without contact with the others. Mini teater suggests to do anything but closing in and pushing other away (which has become alarmingly common in the today's world). In a little community as our own, the wish for the other, the different, for new horizons, for new people, cultures has to find a way to defy hatred and building walls. We fight against the strong feeling encouraged by populists with our own strong feeling that can be the theatre's weapon. Populists change our cultural matrix in front our very eyes, they say things that were only yesterday completely unthinkable and beyond and decency, and they say it is all freedom of speech and expressing one's opinion. A high tolerance to what can be said is dangerous, as well as ideological encouragement of saying whatever one wants. "I dare say it out loud" can only belong to theatre. Theatre satisfies a human need to talk about ourselves and to be heard. Beside social questions in our performances, we also ask questions about the place and nature of the text in the contemporary theatre.

Dramatic text A Beautiful Ending by Mohamed el Khatib (a contemporary and particular French author with Maghrebi roots), has inspired the director Ivica Buljan to make a stage performance from the base of the text that then opens to new sequences, from intimate notes, medical records, to the analysis of the artist's own position in the public sphere. It is a heterogeneous work composed from various dialogues, fragments from a diary, documentary materials ... Death of a mother is an intimate point where life gets a new form. We also come across descriptions of the life rituals and the passing away in the Islamic culture which is almost unknown to us. But this is not ethnographic exploration, our goal is to show an original theatre script that opens up for the understanding of the Other; something that our closed-up society desperately needs.

The novel Cosmopolis by Don DeLillo, and a complex cycle My Struggle by Karl Ove Knausgaard, both open up political and personal dimensions of current performatives. The director Alen Prošić will stage the scene adaptations of both texts.

Adaptations of such strong and narratively broad texts into theatre performances is not only an attempt to express their power through theatre, it is also an inclination to penetrate into the dark zone of exciting phantasms. Classical world literature works are still relevant today, if we treat them by looking to the future.

The author Saša Pavček and the director Barbara Zemljič are preparing a special, almost "Hanke-like" poetic post-drama Under the Snow that questions our powerlessness when dealing with lack of solidarity. The text is searching for a justification for the fears we cannot control – therefore the analysis goes beyond the judging and digs to the very reasons for the "look-away" position that many people are showing today. Mini teater has always nurtured the poetic chamber theatre and is proud to introduce this local pearl among the newest plays.

Our Class by Tadeusz Słobodzianek alludes to the classic work by Tadeusz Kantor Dead Class. There is a reference to the Kantor's text in the Słobodzianek's play since both texts are dealing with the Polish culture as a historical memento and an artistic testimony of the most horrible periods of European history. Słobodzianek's text not only breaks the documentarist fiction but also strengthens it on a higher level with its morals message. Our Class that has been staged several times throughout Europe. Mini teater has invited the young and talented director Nina Rajić Kranjac, to stage this play in Ljubljana. This will be the first cooperation between the Mini teater and Nina Rajić Kranjac.

Our time is marked with the panic and worrying about what the audiences like to watch. But the audiences like to watch what is already known to them. That position prevents the theatre creators away from making the effect of surprise and the possibility to create a dialogue. Moreover, many times the mass media introduces the artistic point of view as a useless one. That mass media position shows/proves the unconscious fear (the fear of the governing elites) of the people that are thinking, listening and making their own minds after having the constant contacts with the art. The artists around the Mini teater are strongly rejecting that role of "art" that delivers only the things that are already known. On the contrary, we are standing in the front of the active questioning about "the obvious", we want to surprise and provoke the spectators, we want to make them think deep and long after they have already leave the theatre arena and we want them to apply their renewed thinking in their day-to-day work and life. The Mini teater's artistic and social role is to evoke the spirit of its time.

Očka je velik in močan in zna vse, še celo čarati! Ampak, glej no, tak velik mož, pa se boji tujcev! Hčerki se zdi to čudno, zato razmišlja, kako naj svojemu pametnemu in pogumnemu očku prežene strah. Mogoče bo rojstni dan njene prijateljice, ki prihaja iz Tanzanije, odlična priložnost?

Kaj vemo o življenju otrok v Siriji, Iraku, Afganistanu? Se starši in učitelji res bojijo otrok? Spoznajmo različne kulture, ne zavračajmo jih, saj to kaže samo na našo nevednost in ksenofobičnost. Učimo se drug od drugega in prav nič nas ne bo več motila različnost. In tukaj je srčika naše ideje za projekt po motivih dveh slikanic, ki govorita ravno o tem. Zgodbi slikanic Vsi tukaj, vsi skupaj in Kako se je pogumni očka nehal batí tujcev pokažeta, kako nas strah pred drugačnim hromi in kako nas spoznavanja in sprejemanje naših različnosti bogatita.

Daddy is big and strong and he can do anything, even magic! But, look, he's afraid of foreigners! His daughter finds this odd, so she comes up with an idea to help her smart daddy conquer fear of foreigners. Perhaps her Tanzanian friend's birthday is a great opportunity?

What do we know about children's lives in Syria, Iraq, Afghanistan ...? Are parents and teachers really afraid of the children? Instead of rejecting new cultures, we shall get to know them better. Rejection only reflects our ignorance and xenophobia. If we learn from one another we won't care about our differences. These sentences describe our idea for the project that is inspired by the motives of two picture books.. The stories of the picture books All Here, All Together and How Brave Daddy Conquered His Fear of Foreigners show that fear of the different only paralyses us, while that meeting and accepting our differences makes us richer.

Zgodba spreminja dva mlada človeka, ki komaj ubežita smrti. Templjar Kurt kot po čudežu uide usmrtili izpod sultanovih rok, nato pa iz goreče hiše reši mlado dekle, Natanovo hčer Reho. Reha Kurta prepriča, naj ovrže svoje verske predvodke in med njima se razvije nežna naklonjenost. Fant in dekle se zaljubita, jeruzalemski škof je vse prej kot navdušen in tudi Natan se ne more sprizniti z dejstvom, da se Reha sestaja s križarjem. Ko se razve, da je Reha v resnici kristjanka, ki jo je Natan posvojil in vzgojil v judovski veri, škof in sultan skupaj napadeta Natana. Vmes se postavita Reha in Kurt.

V Hubovi zgodbi je poudarjen generacijski prepad – odrasli na vodilnih položajih gojijo zamere in nestrpnost do različnosti religij, medtem pa mladi zavračajo predvodke in javno poudarjajo, da je potrebno spoznavanje in srečevanje religij. Nathanovi otroci (se) sprašujejo, ali lahko razumevanje, strpnost in modrost spremenijo svet? Bo Natanovim otrokom uspelo, da bo za vse ljudi na svetu končno obveljalo: »Jud, kristjan, musliman ... mar nismo najprej in predvsem ljudje!«

The story follows two young people who barely escape death. The Knight Templar Kurt escapes execution under sultan, then he saves a young girl from a house on fire. This is Nathan's daughter Recha. Recha convinces Kurt to drop his religious prejudice, and they develop a tender affection to each other. They fall in love. The Jerusalem bishop is not impressed, and also Nathan cannot accept the fact that Recha is seeing a knight templar. When rumours break out that Recha is in fact a Christian who was adopted by Nathan and raised in Jewish culture, the bishop and the sultan decide to attack Nathan together. Recha and Kurt step between them.

Hub's story underlines the generation gap – adults with the powering positions seethe with resentment and intolerance towards different religions, while the young refuse to be influenced by the prejudices, and publicly stress the importance of meeting and accepting different religions. Nathan's children ask (themselves) if the understanding, tolerance and the wisdom can change the world. Will Nathan's children manage to achieve their goal of creating a world where the following matters: "Jew, Christian, Muslim ... are we not all first and foremost human?"

Oscar Wilde v Baladi o readinški ječi izraža pristna čustva in misli ob usmrtnosti sojetnika – razmišlanja o univerzalnosti krivde in moralne šibkosti, o sorodnosti med pesnikom, obsojenim morilcem in človeštvo nasploh (»vsak ubije tisto, kar ljubi«), o nečloveškosti zaporniškega sistema – in zato postane balada aktualna v katerem koli času naše civilizacije, zgrajene na zakonih, pravilih, postavah, ki uravnavajo človeški »kaos«.

Odrska postavitev recitala bo preplet dveh zvrsti: glasbene in literarne. Balada kot literarna zvrst je rdeča nit, zgodba, ki je tudi osnovni dramaturški lok celotne gledališke postavitve. Glasbeni deli, pete pesmi iz različnih obdobjij, pa so asociativni tok, ki bo v obliki intermezzov pletel svet, vzporeden baladi.

Oscar Wilde's Ballad of Reading Gaol expresses pristine emotions and thoughts about the execution of a fellow prisoner – Wilde thinks about the universality of guilt and moral weakness, about similarity between a poet, a convicted murderer and mankind in general (»each man kills the thing he loves«), about inhumanity of the prison system – and this is why the ballad speaks to any era of our civilisation build on laws, rules, orders that regulate the human "chaos".

Stage version of the recital will be a combination of two forms: a musical part and a wording part. Ballad as a literary form is the cohesive thread, a story that is also the main dramaturgical concept of the performance. Musical parts, chant songs from different eras, are the associative flow that will create a world, parallel to the ballad, with various intermezzos.

MOHAMED EL KHATIB NAJ BO KONEC LEP A Beautiful Ending

Mohamed El Khatib je želel napisati dramsko besedilo na podlagi intervjujev, ki jih je naredil s svojo materjo. Leta 2012 je njena smrt prezgodaj končala zastavljeni projekt. Nastala je zlepiljenka časopisnih izrezkov, elektronskih in telefonskih sporočil, transkripcij pogovorov, videov, kratih dialogov z očetom ... Ves material združuje fikcijo in dokumentarnost in ponuja vpogled v intimnost življenja zaznamovanega s smrtjo ter se dotika vprašanj družine, države, maternega jezika, spominov, žalovanja. Besedilo je ganljiva avtobiografska pripoved, mestoma zajedljivo boleča, pogosto pa tudi zabavna, ki pretanjeno prepleta osebno z univerzalnim.

Besedilo je bilo leta 2016 nagrajeno z veliko nagrado za dramatiko (Grand Prix de Littérature dramatique).

Mohamed El Khatib wanted to write a play based on the interview he had made with his mother. In 2012 her early death ended the planned project. The remaining of the unfinished project was a patchwork of the newspaper clippings, the electronic and telephone messages, the conversation transcriptions, the videos, the shot dialogues with the father ... All the material combines fictions and documentary elements, and it offers a view of the hidden life marked with death. That patchwork opens the questions of family, the state, the mother tongue, the memories and of the grief. The text is a moving autobiographic narration, at times cuttingly painful, but often also funny, that subtly interweaves the personal with the universal.

In 2016, the text was awarded the big award for dramatic literature (Grand Prix de Littérature dramatique).

Postdramsko gledališče

Dramsko besedilo Pod snegom v trikotniku med hčerjo, njenim ljubimcem in materjo obravnava medčloveške odnose in psihološke sence vsakega posameznika. Gre za intimno zgodbo, polno strasti in ljubezni, ki človeka doleti, ne da bi se sam odločil zanj. Dialogi v drami pa so napisani v privzdignjeni verzni obliki.

Predstava se bo osredotočila na metaforičnost in ne na naturalizem. S kontrasti v scenografiji bo kazala na razliko med notranjim in zunanjim svetom likov, skozi telo, ples bodo izraženi intimni občutki krivde in sramu, ki jih pozna vsak izmed nas, zvok kot eden izmed ključnih elementov predstave pa bo služil poudarjanju notranjih stanj. Pričakujemo lahko intimen, gibalno in glasbeno podkrepljen, metaforičen prikaz človeških notranjih občutkov – tiste senčne strani, ki jo ljudje ponavadi skrivamo.

The play Under the Snow talks about the human relations and our psychological shadows through a triangle between a mother, a daughter and her lover. It is an intimate story full of passion and love that happens to an individual without their explicit decision or consent. Dialogues are written in a sophisticated verse form.

The performance will focus on the metaphorical part instead of the naturalistic part. Contrasts in scenography will unveil the difference between the outside world and the private thoughts of the characters, body and dance will express the intimate feelings of a guilt and shame known to all of us. The sound, as one of the key elements of the performance, will emphasise the inner states of mind of the characters. We can expect an intimate, metaphorical display of inner feelings, supported by movement and music; those shadowy sides that we usually hide.

Naš razred je zgodba o skupini sošolcev iz majhnega, večkulturnega poljskega mesteca, v katerem so sprva do sovjetske in kmalu nato še nemške okupacije v slogi in prijateljstvu živeli poljski in judovski otroci. V štirinajstih prizorih se pred našimi očmi odvrtijo pretresljive usode desetih učencev nekega povsem običajnega šolskega razreda – od njihovih prvih zaljubljenosti in prijateljstev do neizmerne krutosti, ki jo povzročita antisemitizem in nacizem. Avtor te virtuozno napisane drame skorajda dokumentarno sledi usodam desetih otrok od leta 1925, nekaterim izmed njih vse do danes, da bi skozi zapleten preplet njihovih usod prikazal grozovite posledice tako stalinistične kot nacistične ideološke indoktrinacije, ki sta med ljudmi povzročili popoln razkol in sovraštvo. Obenem pa v drami razkriva tudi problem kolektivne krivde in njenih posledic, ki ljudi določajo in zaznamujejo še danes.

Our Class is a story about a group of classmates from a small multicultural Polish town where Polish and Jewish children lived in unity until first the German Nazi occupation and then the Soviet occupation. Fourteen scenes show us the tragic fates of ten pupils from a completely ordinary school class – from their first loves and friends to the infinite cruelty caused by antisemitism and Nazism. The author of this virtuously written play follows the fates of ten children in an almost documentarist way. He follows them from 1925 until today (for some) to show, through the complicated intertwining of their fates and the horrific consequences of the Nazi and the Stalinist ideological indoctrination that both caused a complete separation and hatred among the people. At the same time, the play also uncovers the problem of the collective guilt and its consequences that still mark and define people today.

Absurdna komedija

Premiera/Premiere: oktober 2017/October 2017

Produkcija/Production: Mini teater

Eric Packer, newyorški multimiljonar, si nekoga dne v aprilu zada na videz preprosto nalog: obiskati frizerja na drugem koncu Manhattna. Potovanje v razkošni, neprebojni, visoko tehnološko opremljeni beli limuzini se izkaže za nič manj kot futuristično odisejado. Packerju pot prestrezajo prometni zamaški zaradi obiska predsednika ZDA, antikapitalistični protest in pogrebna povorka za sufijskim reperjem. Ovinki do cilja se daljšajo še zaradi naključnih srečanj z ženo in ne-naključnih "srečanj" z manj usodnimi ženskami. Na račun samozavestnega prepričanja, da bo vrednost japonskega jena padla, Packer mimogrede izgublja velikanske vsote svojega in tujega kapitala. Izključevanje možnosti nepredvidljivega, na katero ga tiho opominja njegova asimetrična prostata, pa ga ne stane le denarja, ampak tudi iluzije o lastni nesmrtnosti. "Ko bom umrl, me ne bo konec. Sveta bo konec."

One day in April, Eric Packer, a New York multimillionaire, decides to take upon a seemingly simple task: to visit a hairdresser on the other side of Manhattan. The voyage in a luxurious, bulletproof, high-tech white limousine turns out to be nothing less than a futuristic odyssey. Packer's path is blocked by traffic jams due to the visit of the USA president later due to the anticapitalistic protest, and later due to the funeral procession for a Sufist rapper. Detours on the way to his destination are getting longer and longer also because of coincidental encounters with his wife, and non-coincidental "encounters" with less fatal women. Due to his confident belief that the value of the Japanese yen will drop, Packer incidentally loses huge amounts of his own capital and the capital of others. Shutting out the possibility of the unpredictable, on which he is constantly quietly reminded by his asymmetrical prostate, doesn't only cost him his money but also the illusion about his immortality. "I will not die, it's the world that will end."

Moj boj (Min Kamp), serija šestih romanov norveškega pisatelja Karla Oveja Knausgaarda, ni nič več in nič manj kot avtobiografski popis banalosti, ponižanj in perverzij v življenju običajnega človeka. smo v prisotnosti zavednega glasu, ki si brez zadržkov dovoli spregovoriti o tem, kar si misli. Glas o vsakomur in za vsakogar, kot iztočnica za "fiktivno dokumentaristični" performans, ki ne razgalja le tega istega običajnega človeka, ampak za seboj iz varnega zavetja voajerske pozicije potegne tudi gledalca. V najširšem kontekstu gre za brutalni poskus samorefleksije.

My Struggle (Min Kamp) is a series of six novels by a Norwegian writer Karl Ove Knausgaard. The autobiographic material is nothing more and nothing less than a massive account of banalities, humiliations and perversions in a life of an ordinary man. We witness a conscious voice that speaks his thoughts without restraint. Voice of everyone and for everyone as a starting point for a "fictively documentarist" performans that doesn't only expose the ordinary man, but also pulls the spectators from their safe voyeuristic position. The broadest context of the performance is a brutal attempt of self-reflection.
